On Monday, April 23rd I was interviewed by host Matt Buff of the Rapture Ready Radio show "Buffed Up Radio", broadcast over BlogTalkRadio.

During the 45 minute live show we talked about how April was a tough month for Christians. April held the Day of Silence for Homosexual Students, Pot Head Day, and Earth Day bringing out the green police. Plus, as Matt said, "Apparently, I'm supposed to be more outraged by what Mitt Romney does with his money than by what Barack Obama does with mine." We also discussed the Christianity Under Attack Conference and DVDs, as well as attempted to pinpoint when the birth of the Christian Church began for the Gentiles. Read or listen in!

Matt Buff: Nathan, welcome to the program! Glad to have you back on.

Nathan Jones: Hey, glad to be on, Matt! Good to talk with you again.

Matt Buff: Well, I hope everything in Texas has been going good for you.

Nathan Jones: Well you know we had a rash of killer tornados come through and picked up tracker trailers and blew them all over the place like they were toy cars. And did a lot of damage down south in Forney, and Arlington where the airport is. But the Lord spared a lot of people and we've just been really blessed. This time of year it could be far worse in the way of weather, but here in Dallas we've been blessed.

Matt Buff: Well that is good you were able to avoid some of those tornadoes. We have had some listeners write in that weren't as fortunate, they've been very close to the action. And this is once again a prophetic year in my eyes because when we have as many natural disasters and we are setting record, after record, after record on many different things. We look around this world and we can look for an imminent and soon return of Jesus Christ that's for sure.

Nathan Jones: Oh, amen. I mean just the head wave we've had 15,000 different records were broken for the heat this year. I mean they are getting a freak snowstorm up in New England even right now which they usually don't get even at the end of April. The weather is already going crazy and I can't even imagine what the summer is going to be like with the heat being so high so. Yeah the earthquakes we've been seeing. The Lord is telling us, He is trying to shake us out of our apathy and saying, "Look, look I'm coming soon."

Matt Buff: Amen to that. Now you and I were talking a little bit earlier on Facebook about you know how it's been kind of a tough month for Christians just here in the United States. On April 20th we have the Day of Silence for the homosexual community. We will get into that here in a second. Also it was called Weed Day, April 20th as something the pot heads all over the United States celebrate. Although they don't move very quickly when they are celebrating it. And then Earth Day, when I was a kid, I don't know about you Nathan but Earth Day it was a cool thing. You would go out and plant a tree and appreciate your earth. But now green police are out in full effect trying to tell you what to do with your life. And how to change and make things better so we can save this planet. They are trying to save a planet that they are not in control of.

Nathan Jones: Yeah, and then blame all the problems on Global Warming.

Matt Buff: Which another prominent scientific came out today with an article and strangely enough it was posted on msnbc where he even recanted his book he wrote in 2006 saying that, "I was an alarmist and I shouldn't have been because clearly the situation isn't what I thought it was."

Nathan Jones: The whole thing with the Global Warming it is a propaganda war really. I mean one day you read about 49 scientist who come out and say hey this global warming thing just doesn't have the scientific evidence. And then the next day the opposition comes out with an article saying that more Christians in churches are adopting issues about Global Warming and how to deal with it. So it is definitely a war for the hearts of people. I think it is close to me because my youngest son is 8 and he is autistic. And every week there is a new article that comes out about somebody saying, "This is the reason for autism." Every week it is something different and it always agenda based. Like one week it was the mothers are overweight, they are obese and therefore that is causing autism so we need to do something about that and get the women to lose weight. And you know it is just out of the blue, there is no scientific backing to it but they can say hey it helps with the obesity issue. Or if it is environment like pesticides, well pesticides are getting into our children therefore we need to get rid of pesticides. I mean it is just shameless how Global Warming and all these different issues are just propaganda tools to push people's agendas and that is what everything is lately. There is no agreement it is total disregard for uniformity and everybody is out there with their own agenda and their own thing and it is just tearing us apart.

Matt Buff: It is tearing us apart. You are being forced to pick sides and I know you made a Freudian slip there but they do probably blame autism for Global Warming. I mean there is nothing else to blame it on so maybe they do. But I tell you what when you look at this. I had my four year old tested for autism and so I don't know exactly what you are going through of course. But I know a little bit about it by the studies. But here we have 1 in 110 children with autism in this country.

Nathan Jones: I seen the latest results is 1 in 88 now. That is the one that just came out last month. So they've showed a continuing trend of every year getting more and more. And for boys 1 in 44 so it is definitely becoming a major issue, and people are starting to notice it. The whole idea of the survival of the fittest that you get from some parents when it comes to like vaccines for instance, it is starting to lessen because it is going to beyond that and it spreading more and more. So you're 4 year old tested for autism?

Matt Buff: Yes, and it came back negative. He has a myriad of issues but autism was not one of them. I was thankful for that. There are lot of things we have to do with him though. He has lots of syndromes and symptoms of things, but autism isn't one of them. And with you, and what saddens my heart is we have so much money going to the lazy in this country yet autism is the least funded, but yet most effecting the people in this country. And yet it is the least funded. I know funding is starting to pick up for research and things like that. And you are right they don't know where it comes from. I've heard even the reports on you know it could have been vaccines. You know maybe too many vaccines. So yes parents are backing off the vaccines now because they are just not sure. And when you have all these things from all over the place and we just look at this, and you and I with children we have our hands in the air we are just like we want to do the best we can for our kids, but this country sure is making it tough.

Nathan Jones: You know the closer we get to the end we are seeing the break down of the human genome. You know we are seeing all the medicines that we've got that are supposed to help us prolong our lives. It seems like we are just getting sicker, and sicker. And our kids are getting poorer, and poorer. And I wonder if you guys remember that old Michael Keaton movie was it Multiplicity, where he made carbon copies of himself. And one of the carbon copies decided he was going to make a twin and he made a carbon copy of himself, and they carbon copy or the carbon copy was really stupid and it couldn't do much. And I am wondering if the human genome as we go through time as we are constantly living under the fall. As we are constantly bombarded by you know radiation and subjected to our own nuclear experiments, and food additives. Who knows? That the human genome is wearing down and if the Lord didn't come soon how far before we have a whole society that is genetically totally broken down? I don't know for sure but the human population won't have much longer until Jesus comes back and lifts the curse partially off during the Millennial Kingdom and restores the human race to the ages we had before the Flood. I think then we will stop seeing so much deterioration in the human body like we are seeing today; and the result being autistic children, and people that are just sick and a lot of genetic disabilities.

Matt Buff: Well that's right exactly. And you notice throughout history here and once again you can just look at the United States throughout history the more we turn away from God; the more we get away from eschatology, the more we just put away what we consider old fashioned and not worthwhile in today's society the worse the society becomes. I mean if you want to do a scientific study you can look just at the economy, from the moment we starting turning away from God as a country the economic situation has grown worse. And look at where we are today with the President we have today and the administration that we have today; and the morals being tossed out window with the garbage. Now here we sit at over 20 trillion dollars in accumulated debt.

Nathan Jones: Yes. You know I have been reading Jonathan Cahn's book, Harbinger, there has been a lot of talk about it, and a lot of people trying to see if it is doctrinally and biblically eschatologically sound. And for me the jury is still out as I read it. But one thing that he makes a wonderful point and our ministry has been long preaching about this that the judgment of God has fallen on us when instead of repenting when judgment comes on us, we instead turn around and say, "We will build stronger walls. We will pull ourselves up by our boot straps basically and not heed God's warning." And that's exactly what we did after 9/11. You know we ended up doing this War on Terror which it sounded like a noble thing but it has just drained our bank accounts. We've lowered the interest rates which caused everybody to debt spike and have more debt then what we know what to do with. And the government like a bunch of drunken lemurs are out there spending more money and we have trillions of dollars in debt that is unsustainable and will cause a worldwide crash and we know it has to it's not a matter of if, but when. And so again we are lining ourselves us up for judgment by God. Now if we as a nation when we received these judgments whether it be weather or attacks internally or externally whatnot, turned and repented towards God then God would accept us in mercy and forgive us and restore us. And that was a historical pattern for Israel. Every time Israel would rebel against God, God would put a judgment on them. And if they repented they would have the strength back again. But when they didn't they continued to get more judgments and more judgments until eventually God would just wipe His hands of them and the nation feel apart like the Northern tribes being taken away by the Assyrians. And it is no different for the United States. The United States has faced judgment after judgment and instead of seeking the Lord in repentance like we should we are seeing the nation collapse economically, and morally, to the point where it cannot continue to sustain this downward decline we are going to end up just like Russia was after the Soviet Union collapsed if we continue on this trend. And sadly as you said you know with this Day of Silence, and Earth Day which is earth worshipping basically and all these different things is that we are not turning to God. We are turning further away from God than ever and judgment will continue to come on us until we relent.

Matt Buff: Well not only are we turning from God, we are completely medicated and high while doing so. Let's talk about just the Weed Day where they talk about this story. Who celebrates the observation is shared by marijuana users from San Francisco's Golden Gate Park (shocker there) to New York's Greenwich Village last year some 10,000 people gathered at the University of Colorado to simultaneously smoke marijuana. There they are arrest them it is illegal. Now this year the University shut down a campus quad that hosts the annual gathering. The organizers said the protest may be moved to a nearby off campus neighborhood which could cause clashes between police and protestors. The rally happened in Denver near the state capital last Friday and Saturday and police have suggested that they will be taking a hands-off approach to the gathering which could draw 10's of thousands of people. And then here's a kicker and this is a shame for your home state, but in Austin Texas country music legend Willie Nelson who is not only an open pothead but his music tends to lean towards to the aspect of yes this guy is a pothead. They are unveiling an 8 foot statue of himself in downtown Austin. Now they didn't tell us if it was going to be made of copper or cannabis they just weren't clear on that.

Nathan Jones: That's a big hemp statue.

Matt Buff: Yes.

Nathan Jones: Well it is interesting one of the signs of the end times the Bible talks about especially during the Tribulation is turning towards magic. And magic if you go back to the original is pharmaceea, where we get our term pharmaceuticals. And a lot of magic is based on using herbs and potions and stuff like that, basically a drug culture. What we see in the end times is a growing, increasing and accepting of the drug culture. And since the 1960's up we have seen that grow and increase. You can walk through Colorado, I was in Colorado last year and you can openly sell hemp right out of stores. One store I walked by near Colorado Springs had a picture of a bunch of penguins all staggering around like they couldn't stand up right on the outside of their building. And this is what they are using to advertise it. So it is an acceptance of what it is right but what is wrong and it is pharmacy culture, it an escapism culture to escape from the world around them. It is interesting that the article you just read. There is a video attached to it at the bottom of the page. Did you get to see that?

Matt Buff: Yes.

Nathan Jones: And the guy you can tell he is an ex-hippie and he is giving three reasons why he believes that marijuana should be legalized. And it isn't it interesting that the number one reason they recited not whether it was morally wrong or right or anything like that, is that it could be taxed and bring in a lot of revenue. And isn't true that every vice that we have out there especially gambling. Texas being next to Oklahoma is all about gambling they can say they bring in money for revenue and that is a good thing. But they never address the real issue; is taking drugs that ruin our body, destroy our minds, and separate us from Jesus Christ moral or not. And the obvious answer is that it is immoral.

Matt Buff: And there have been studies that prove that marijuana is a gateway into cocaine and eventually things like crystal meth. I watch Intervention, all the time on A&E and I watch these people all start out with marijuana and it leads to something else. And so I looked it up and sure enough the study is overwhelming how marijuana use has started other trends into more dangerous drugs. And marijuana itself is a dangerous drug. And people go, "What about alcohol?" Well alcohol in its abuses are a dangerous drug too. Yet I look at the New Testament and Old Testament where they did drink wine but they talk about alcoholism in excess. They talk about you know homosexuality. They talk about murder. They talk about fornicators. They talk about all these things that people do in excess. And so when you look at these things that are gateway and abused one after another, I mean there is no good answer for it. If it brings in revenue for this country under especially an Administration like this that revenue is going to be squandered to the same people who smoke the pot anyway. They are just going to get money back in their pockets.

Nathan Jones: Excellent point, excellent point. Now even sadder I had a friend of mine who when growing up she was in the New Age movement and she would use various mind altering drugs to help open herself up more to demon possession which they would think it was ancient spirits giving them wisdom. Which we know is demon possession. The marijuana would be used for that, pot would be used for that. They go particularly to meetings and then engage into the occult. So what we aren't talking about is innocent understanding, "Oh marijuana is good because it brings in tax revenue." I truly believe the people who are pushing marijuana and know that the purpose is because they know it will remove people's inhibitions and it will open themselves up, they say it frees their mind. Yes it frees their mind, but it frees their mind from inhibitions and it opens them up to the great chance of being demon possessed. And my friend she to this day will look back with horror at times when she would feel the demons rummage around inside of her head, because she knew these drugs would open her up to this. So these people who are saying this you have to call a spade a spade, they are evil. They want to open up a whole new drug culture that will destroy the culture and bring about demon possession and occultism. And that is really the basis for this.

Matt Buff: It is and it is something that is just so blindingly obvious to people like you and I that for some reason the whole world, like when you put marijuana on the ballot you know it just feels like we've already kind of reached that point that you mentioned earlier where we are just walking around like in WALL-E just a bunch of fat dumb people. Because when you put things like this on the ballot it does get good support with people because they aren't educated, they just don't know. And it is all those Ron Paul supporters out there that are voting hard core.

Nathan Jones: Funny you mentioned that I had a big debate with my brother-in-law who even though a solid Christian is a Ron Paul supporter, and his reasoning is that he believes that drugs should be legalized because (1) it ends all the craziness (with the cost, again it is all a cost argument. Look we are spending billions of dollars on this war on drugs) therefore if we legalize it's okay. Or we can get all this money in tax revenue, that's ok. Well you know it is kind of scary that Ron Paul is a doctor is supporting this. But it misses the point it is morally wrong. It is morally wrong to remove ones inhibitions and allow them to sin. And that is why the Bible speaks out against drunkenness because drunkenness is the same it removes our inhibitions and allows us to sin when we normal wouldn't do those sins. So these people know what they are doing. They know that what they are trying to do is promulgate evil. And it is a sad state in our society that we have been more accepting of it.

Matt Buff: Pretty smart for potheads. But that is the extent of their knowledge.

Nathan Jones: Yeah they know how to do that right.

Matt Buff: Yeah they know how to do that right, that's it. As far as getting a job or anything that's another story.

Nathan Jones: Amen.

Matt Buff: We're on-line here with Nathan Jones of Lamb and Lion Ministries you can go to lamblion.com. Nathan we talked a lot of the decline of America and around the world and I want to continue to go down that path and then really spin it up with the prophetic angle from some information that you have on the blog on your website which I want to direct people to. Go to lamblion.com and on the far right there you will see Nathan and I sitting on the far right, no, you will see links to the blog and the news pages. And definitely go there because Dr. David Reagan and Nathan Jones are constantly putting new material up there of what is going on in the world. So we are going to get into that too. You know the Day of Silence happened on the same day as High Day so I guess they coordinated that correctly because it is very easy to be silent when you are high.

Nathan Jones: Is there any correlation because I noticed Earth Day was the same day? What's up with that?

Matt Buff: Oh, that was just a miserable day. I was in a bad mood all day. Everywhere I went I saw the Day of Silence and the high stuff and the green police out and telling me what to do. They tell me to take a shorter shower with the lights off. You know it's just I don't need you getting into my business like that. But you know I don't see when you go to the various websites I don't see any coordination. I just want to say that George Soros is probably behind it all. So when you follow the money behind it you could probably go to one place.

Nathan Jones: Could be yeah.

Matt Buff: The Day of Silence was for kids who are in school who are homosexuals to not speak the whole day. And basically this causes a mass disruption in the school systems.

And unfortunately for them and fortunately for the rest of us a lot of people didn't know about this, it is picking up some traction but you know teachers aren't even putting up with this too much. All they want is people to go to school and be quiet because they are trying to stop bullying of homosexuals. Yet you know I posted on Facebook there is this white guy that got beat up by 20 black guys and they said that was for Trayvon Martin and he's currently right now today in the hospital. I put his picture up there. The liberal retaliation can be either violent or disruptive and this is another one that is disruptive. You know I have kids, if you want to handle a bully you beat him up and make him respect you. They are trying to do it by disrupting everybody else's life instead of dealing with the actual issue.

Nathan Jones: Well isn't that the core of the homosexual activist strategy they can make life difficult for everybody. They can be bullies and force you in the courts to accept their version of what morality is. They can take away your rights to share Christianity on the street corners during their parades. But heaven forbid you say anything to them. It is purely hypocritical strategy that they run. You know between Earth Day, and the Weed Day and the homosexual agenda you know what Matt this makes me think of Romans 1. I mean Romans 1 explains exactly what is going on here. Is it ok if I read a little bit of that.

Matt Buff: Yes, please do because that's what we always tie it back into. The Bible has an answer for everything. And sure enough this is explained as well.

Nathan Jones: Yeah verse 18 it starts, "The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness. Since what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them. For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that people are without excuse." In other words creation in its complexity proves there is a God; but they reject God. The verses continue, "they neither glorified him as God nor gave thanks to him, but their thinking became futile and their foolish hearts were darkened." And you know what Matt that is exactly what we are seeing now futile thinking, dark hearts. And what they did is they exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images made to look like man. In other words they turned around and as it says here they serve created things rather than the Creator. They turned on God and now they are worshipping nature. They are nature worshipping. And when you do that when your futile minds start thinking like that then this is the results morally. Verse 26, "...gave them over to shameful lusts. Even their women exchanged natural sexual relations for unnatural ones. In the same way the men also abandoned natural relations with women and were inflamed with lust for one another." And it goes on to talk about how the due penalty of perversion is all the results of that the diseases they get, and things like that. So it talks about a depraved mind and it goes on. Verse 29, "They have become filled with every kind of wickedness, evil, greed and depravity. They are full of envy, murder, strife, deceit and malice. They are gossips, slanderers, God-haters..." And the list goes on and on and on and it concludes with verse 32; "Although they know God's righteous decree that those who do such things deserve death, they not only continue to do these very things but also approve of those who practice them." Earth Day, Weed Day, the homosexual agenda it can all be tied into this rejection of God that Romans 1 talks about.

Matt Buff: Amen that is exactly right. And it is kind of like a headline for what we see today. They take their dark hearts; they take their foolish minds and futile minds and then turn it right to us and say how come you don't accept this? We hate you because you don't.

Nathan Jones: Exactly and what they hate through us is God. They hate God. Interesting I have had a lot of talking with Atheist lately because of some of the videos we have put on YouTube. And now and then they will admit they will clear up all the arguments and their statements and their ad hominem attacks. And they will finally make it clear; they know there is a God, but they reject God because God is going to send them to Hell. They won't accept Jesus' salvation. They want a third method, they want God just to leave them alone. But that's not the truth. It is a shame too that their sin matters so much more to them than what God can give them in terms of eternal life and salvation and forgiveness. And that God loves us so much that He would sacrifice His own Son to provide a way through faith that we could accept that. So it is a sad testimony of what a depraved mind does. It makes you in effect insane. And we are seeing that as the United States and the countries around the world are crumbling morally, the people want it to crumble morally and that is another sign of a depraved mind they want to see everything fall apart. And it must be a judgment kind of like a built in self-destruct system that God built into us that when we become depraved mentally we want to destroy ourselves and that's the way of getting rid of all of that immorality.

Matt Buff: Amen, that is exactly right. So yes the liberal mind is a depraved mind. And a psychotic mind because you keep trying to do the same thing over and over again and you expect a different result. It's just the definition of insanity.

Nathan Jones: It is crazy the policies you see coming out. Take for instance the environmental policies. Alright the United States is getting into near 15 trillion dollars in debt. Yet we have 400 years worth of oil, and natural gas underneath United States soil. If we pulled that out and sold it we would get rid of our debt. We would become a world leader again economically. We would not have to depend on our enemies to supply our oil and gas needs. And our country would be bountiful. But the depraved mind says that we must save the salmon, or we need to save that tree is more important than us living in poverty and squalor and being subjected to our debtors. And shutting down something like the Keystone Pipeline which Obama did under great pressure by the environmentalist, and we just see that that type of thinking is futile. It is self-destructive and eventually it ends up putting us all into slavery. And history attests to that.

Matt Buff: It does attest to that in a way you just can't imagine. When we go beyond that and talk about the Christianity Under Attack Conference that Lamb and Lion was a part of. I mean we looked beyond the scope of the stupidity of liberalism here. But we have the challenge of Islam; the challenge of humanism, and you mentioned Atheism which is growing, they are up to 15% in this country. Yet as soon as some of them get to the top they fall away and come to Christianity. The challenge of evolution, the challenge of apostasy and you and I were talking on Facebook too. And I've been doing study through Acts right now and it was Acts 11 where Peter was in Antioch witnessing and talking to the people with Cornelius and you know the people were just amazed that Gentiles could be saved. And you know that's where in Antioch the first Christians that is where they first called the Apostles Christians. So once again it started off as a really good thing. But right after that John was talking about the Church of Laodicea and so you have to think about the timeline there which is really interesting. Here we just started Christianity but we know that during the end times that all this will fall away into a Church that spreads evil and tries to fill their pockets with gold. And fill the seats and tickle their ears. They knew about that not a short time after the first group of Christians came about. It is just amazing. You know sometimes people don't look at it that way but it wasn't much of a time difference when they first started and they knew exactly what was going to happen by the grace of God.

Nathan Jones: Yeah James Walker at our conference and covered the Challenge of Apostasy and he covered that pretty well. In reference to your listeners what we do as a ministry we have a big conference every year. It is always held at the end of June. And last year our theme was Christianity Under Attack, and we had a number of speakers come. We had Kerby Anderson talk about the Challenge of Islam. Ron Rhodes the Challenge of Atheism. John Morris the Challenge of Evolution. James Walker like you mentioned the Challenge of Apostasy. Frank Wright the Challenge of Government. And then Dr. Reagan kind of summed it all up that we have the promise of victory. As bad as it looks right now out there and being attacked by all these different types of isms and thoughts and depravities is that we as Christians have the promise that Jesus will return. He will rapture the Church and He will come back and have victory over all of his enemies, and that at the end of the 1,000 year millennial reign he will have victory over Satan. And we will enter the eternal state without sin, without death, without evil anymore, with Jesus as King of Kings and Lord of Lords. We win, and that is the message of Bible prophecy. And I am glad we ended the conference that was all about how bad things are out there with such a positive message about how in the end we win this war.

Matt Buff: And that is the beauty of it, and that's the glory of Jesus Christ Himself, because not only did He take our sins on the cross with Him. I saw a Facebook post earlier today that said, "Yes Christianity is a bloody religion. Look at all the blood that was left on the cross." Because our sins were put on that cross and our Savior is risen. I can take you to the grave of Mohammad, I can take you to the grave of Buddha and there they rest. Not really resting anymore, but their body is. Yet we show an empty tomb and we can show you an empty tomb. And we can talk about our book, our Bible our guidebook in life is the most popular book in history because God said that the Gospel will be preached to the four corners of the earth. It will happen, you can spit in the face of Christianity but you can't deny that it is going to be preached everywhere and that is what we've seen today. But you know you just look at this and you look at the decline and what we have here is people talking about how we are going to lose. And that Newsweek article that you guys had on the website right there under the banner for Christianity Under Attack which says the decline and fall of Christian America. You know that's not going to happen because in the end with our glorious leader we do have victory in Him. We have victory in our personal lives now and in the end we have victory for eternity with Him.

Nathan Jones: Wonderful excellently said. It is tough to live in this culture; to see and be in our society and the downward slope of it. To watch something as wonderful as the United States founded on Christian beliefs, founded on godly men fall apart so quickly. You know I used to read in the Old Testament and still marvel at it that in Israel you would have this generation that was really devote to the Lord. And then you would have the next generation that was okay, but kind of wishy-washy. Then you had the third generation that was totally apostate. And I remember growing up and reading that and thinking how could they be so dumb? How could that possibly be? And now older I am looking at the United States and I am like wow we have done the same thing in three generations. It is that easy for a nation to leave God and fall apart. To the point that you get to the fourth generation and they haven't even heard of God anymore and they don't know how to respond back to Him. So it is truly sad to see the fall of our society. But we know that the United States was never meant to be forever. No nation on the earth is meant to be forever because when Jesus comes back He will set up His kingdom on earth for 1,000 years. And it will be under His authority and His rulership. And the nations, there will be nations, the Bible says. I don't know if they will be like the nations are today. We know Egypt and Syria will still continue to be a national entity and Israel of course. But will the United States exist in the Millennial Kingdom, we don't know. But we know that no nation that is made by human hands will survive. The giant stone that destroys the world empires like we read about in Daniel is Jesus Christ and He will set up His Kingdom and no human kingdom will ever stand against it.

Matt Buff: Amen that is exactly right. And that is why you hear Christians talking so much about a firm foundation. It's more firm than any rock laid by man that will be destroyed in the wrath of the lamb, earthquake anyway. Nothing is more firm than the foundation we have with our Lord Jesus Christ who sits on the right hand of God. Now we talked about that conference last year. June is fast approaching us and talk about the conference that you have coming up here.

Nathan Jones: Well we have a conference at the end of June it is June 29th and 30th and the theme for this one is Israel in the End Times. We are holding it here in the Dallas Texas area. And folks can register, it is free. We do have a banquet with a special meal and Dr. Reagan gives a presentation. And that costs $35 and you have to register for that. We are going to have Dr. Reagan and he is going to be speaking twice. He is going to give a total overview of Israel in Prophecy. And he is going to talk about the error of Replacement Theology that idea that the Church has taken all the promises of Israel. We are going to have Jeff Seif talk about the Arabs and Israel. Mark Hitchcock, Israel in the Tribulation. Arnold Fruchtenbaum which what an intellect; Arnold Fruchtenbaum he is going to talk about Israel in the Millennial Kingdom. Gary Frazier talk about The Salvation of Israel. And Bill Koenig who wrote, Eye to Eye, he is going to talk about The United States and Israel. And that if you are really into politics Bill Koenig has an excellent inside track on that. And then we will have music by Ted Pearce. Ted is great he is a ministry family almost and he is going to do all the messianic music along with Jack Hollingsworth. So I just invite anybody to come out. Check out our website lamblion.com we have an ad right there on the homepage you can click through and get all that information about the conference and we would love to have you all come and learn and just rejoice in the Lord with us.

Matt Buff: Well we've had many of these guys on the show before. And what is neat is when we talk to them and everyone gets excited it is really nice when you can go to a conference and all these individuals are in one place. So bring you pad and paper and get ready for an overload of information because it is a really good event. I know Todd Standburg the Founder of Rapture Ready he just loves going. This is one of his favorite conferences to go to throughout the year. And he goes down there and there is just so much information. But it is so true when you walk out of there and when you can hear all of when you are talking about Israel in the End Times I mean if you don't believe in God and look at how this country is as small as New Jersey and big countries around it want to wipe it off the planet, yet it still stands there. That's more evident as far as physical scientific evidences you can get. So hear about Israel in Bible Prophecy and you are in for a great treat. It is in Allen Texas so not too far outside of Dallas. About how far away is that outside of Dallas?

Nathan Jones: It's really just a suburb of Dallas.

Matt Buff: Yeah ok, very good.

Nathan Jones: And you know what is great about these conferences is that you are not just listening to the speaker but then you can talk to them at their tables and ask them questions. And the fellowship at these conferences; I just love the fellowship. Like you said we see Todd there, he always has some funny shirt on so he stick out like a sore thumb.

Matt Buff: He always does.

Nathan Jones: You can meet all these other Bible prophecy teachers. Even the people you are used to hearing all the time they might attend even though they are not speakers and you can talk to them like Don McGee, and Don Perkins and guys like that. So it is a great a gathering of brothers and sisters in Christ. I feel like it is a little taste of Heaven frankly. When we are up there someday and we are among our brothers and sisters and we are there listening to Moses teach us, and David teach us, and Jesus himself teach us. You know it is just a little taste of that.

Matt Buff: Amen, that is excellent. So go to lamblion.com register today. And go to the banquet because it is more of an intimate setting so you get to hear Dr. Reagan speak at that too and enjoy a nice meal and have some good fellowship.
